Jon Beckman focuses his practice in the area of energy and natural resources law, specifically assisting clients with energy and environmental litigation. Jon draws on his mineral title and regulatory experience to assist clients with disputes over mineral ownership, royalties, and leasehold issues as well as environmental and regulatory matters. Additionally, he assists clients with eminent domain proceedings, construction litigation, midstream litigation, insurance litigation, and arbitration proceedings. Jon is a former Combat Trauma Specialist for the Pennsylvania Army National Guard and served in Operation Iraqi Freedom and is active in the firm's Veterans Inclusion Council.

REPRESENTATIVE EXPERIENCE

Litigated oil and gas leasehold and ownership issues for energy clients

Assisted industry clients in quiet title and partition actions that included complex heirship and mineral title issues

Represented midstream clients in federal eminent domain actions and landowner disputes

Provided counsel to energy operators navigating Pennsylvania's oil and gas laws and regulations

Assisted industry clients in acquiring both surface and oil and gas interests

Prepared mineral title opinions, including complex calculations of ownership and leasehold interests, arising from energy exploration and production operations

Assisted energy clients in complex arbitrations under the American Arbitration Association's Commercial Rules
